It is generally believed that the Americans will win their series from the Frenchmen, as they did a year ago. As the Australians have been showing great form, the meeting of their team and the Americans for the right to challenge the Englishmen for the cup is regarded as assured. The Americans defeated the Australians in all of their matches last season, although some were by close scores.

FATHER OF FORTS IN UNITED STATES IS SEVENTY-FIVE

Senator Proctor, Who as Secretary of War Effected Purchase of Sites for Defense, Honors Natal Day.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., June 1.—When word was passed around the capital today that this was the seventy-fifth birthday of Senator Redfield Proctor, the senior senator from Vermont came in for many hearty congratulations from his colleagues. Senator Proctor has been spoken of as one of the least obtrusive members of the upper house, and perhaps therein lies one of the secrets of the genuine popularity he enjoys on all sides. The Vermont senator is not an orator in the generally accepted sense of that term, but he is a conscientious worker and a deep thinker and his opinions on great issues always carry weight with his republican colleagues. Senator Proctor was born at Proctorsville, Vt., and graduated at Dartmouth college and at the Albany Law school. He began his political career in 1867, when he was elected to the Vermont house of representatives. In that capacity he did much to improve and revise the laws of the state. In 1876 he was elected governor by a majority of 20,000 votes. Like his grandfather, Leonard Proctor, an officer of the Revolutionary army, Redfield Proctor fought for his country. He was lieutenant in the Third Vermont regiment at the opening of the civil war, and was later on General W. F. Smith's staff. Gettysburg found him a colonel in the Fifteenth Vermont. After the war he practiced law and left that profession to become a merchant. He made a creditable record when he was secretary of war under President Harrison. "There is not a city in the country," said Mr. Proctor, after looking around, "that an enemy couldn't shell." Then he set to work to remove cause for alarm. Under his influence sites for fortifications were purchased; money was appropriated for the construction of batteries and mines, the great gun factory at Watervliet was taken for the manufacture of heavy guns, and other measures for similar guards of the nation's safety were adopted. He turned his attention to the army and raised its standard of discipline and reward for merit. Under his administration the number of desertions reached its minimum.

The action went over until Tuesday next. Claude Erickson was shot in the neck at Gladstone, Mich., by his friend Emil Erickson, just from the old country, who did not know that a self-cooker, hammerless revolver would shoot by pulling the trigger. A splendid silver service furnished by popular subscription by the people of the state of Maryland for the United States cruiser Maryland, now at anchor in Annapolis roads, was presented to its commander, Captain Royal R. Ingersoll.

TEN THOUSAND MEDICS WILL MEET IN BOSTON

Field Methods Used By The Japanese In Late War Will Be Studied And Discussed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., June 1.—Coming from the four corners of the medical world, thousands of physicians of international fame will invade Boston next week to attend the annual convention of the American Medical Association. The visitors will be the guests of the Massachusetts Medical society and while here will inspect the $2,000,000 medical school of Harvard university, which was opened today for the first time. One of the most interesting features of the convention, and one which has been sought to more fully carry out the idea of making the meeting one of practical demonstration and firsthand instruction to the physicians attending, will be the importation from Washington of a fully equipped field hospital. This feature, supplied by the national surgeon-general, will consist of 150 tents, beds and relief and galloping ambulances, which will be used to demonstrate the methods employed in providing against camp diseases and infection, and also to show the means adopted by the Japanese to keep down the mortality rate during the eastern war. Before the great congress of 10,000 delegates three orations are to be delivered: one by Dr. A. C. Shattuck of Boston on medicine, another by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York on surgery, and third upon state medicine (dealing with hygiene and state legislation as relating to sanitary laws) by Dr. W. H. Sanders of Montgomery, Ala. Nearly 50 halls of the city have been engaged for the meetings of the society, and at these different places the separate sections of the national society—those of surgery, anatomy, medicine, obstetrics, hygiene, diseases of the eye, diseases of children, nervous and mental diseases, pharmacology and therapeutics, pathology and physiology will hold their separate meetings.

SMOOT IS GUILTY OF CHARGES MADE

UTAH SENATOR LOST HIS CASE IN COMMITTEE ROOM REPORT.

UP TO THE SENATE NEXT

Case Has Been Stubbornly Fought for the Past Three Years in the Senate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., June 1.—By a vote of seven to five, the senate committee on privileges and elections voted Senator Smoot is not entitled to his seat. The committee voted unanimously to have the vote in the senate taken at this session. After dragging along for more than three years this ballot brought the much-discussed case of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah to an end. As has been foreseen all along the decision of the committee is to the effect that Mr. Smoot is not entitled to his seat as a senator of the United States from the State of Utah. The decision is based on the charge that his oath of allegiance to the Mormon church prevented him from giving complete allegiance to the United States. With the end of the famous case it is interesting to note that in the three years of the trial one Senator, Hoar of Massachusetts, has died; another, McComas of Maryland, has retired from his senate, and a third, Clarke of Arkansas, refused to serve and was displaced by Patterson of Colorado. It has been freely said that the committee was not at all anxious to come to any agreement during Smoot's term, but pressure from the anti-Mormon element of Idaho, Utah and the Pacific slope finally forced the seven to five vote for expulsion.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION OF RAILROADS IN CHICAGO

Interesting Developments Are Watched For By The General Public Of The State.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 1.—Before the Wisconsin railroad rate commission, yesterday, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company began the presentation of its reasons why the commission ought not to grant the petition of Secretary of State Houser and others for an order establishing two cents a mile as the maximum passenger rate in this state. The hearing of this company will last probably three days and will be followed by the close of the representations of the North-Western, which road had the major part of its hearing on this matter a month ago. The facts presented by the St. Paul company are similar in effect to those of the North-Western. It is claimed that the average rate of passenger travel is only slightly above two cents a mile now, and that to make a maximum rate of two cents a mile would necessitate the eliminations of excursions, excursions and mileage books and even then would operate to wipe out the small profits now earned by the passenger traffic. Most of the material presented by the company is in the form of statistics of travel and remuneration, and extensive comparisons with passenger traffic in other states, notably with Ohio, in which state the legislature recently enacted a two-cent fare law. It is claimed that traffic is so much less dense in Wisconsin than in Ohio and other states to the east that a two-cent rate might be reasonable there and be confiscatory and unconstitutional in Wisconsin. It is believed that the commission, after extensive independent study of the question, will make the two-cent order and that litigation will follow on the claim of the roads that a two-cent rate would not allow the earning of a profit and would therefore be unlawful.

MEETS DEATH IN COLLISION

Millionaire Is Killed When Auto Runs Into Trolley Car, Trying to Avoid Smash-Up.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 1.—Pendennis White, a millionaire banker and luncheon, was killed and Edwin A. Bell and Richard B. Lyman, stock brokers, were injured in a collision between an automobile and a trolley car on Hertel avenue Thursday night.

The three men had been at the country club for dinner, and were returning to town in an automobile. Mr. Bell, who owned the car, was driving. A trolley car which had been running ahead of the automobile slowed down for a crossing. Mr. Bell swerved to the left to avoid it, not noticing that another trolley car was approaching from the west at high speed.

The east-bound car and the automobile met with terrific force. Mr. White was hurled 50 feet and instantly killed, his neck being broken. Mr. Bell and Mr. Lyman were hurled through the windows of the trolley car. They were badly cut, but miraculously escaped fatal injury.

The chauffeur, who was on the back seat, escaped with a few bruises. Pendennis White was 48 years old. He was a member of the firm of White, Grutwick & Mitchell, wholesale lumber dealers or North Tonawanda, and of the firm of Stevens, Eaton & Co., of New York. He was president of the Lumber Insurance company of New York state, and also president of the newly-organized Adirondack Insurance company.

"He who thinks he can find in himself the means of doing without others is much mistaken; but he who thinks that others cannot do without him is still more mistaken." A merchant rarely makes the first mistake—never if he is sane; but when he concludes to curtail his advertising it is a sign that he is falling into the second.

SANTO DOMINGO.

The island of Santo Domingo, lying between the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico, occupies a geographical position of importance which the United States cannot afford to ignore. The New York Commercial, of late date, in discussing this question, says:

"Of all the countries on this hemisphere, Santo Domingo, because of its position, is pre-eminently the one where the United States can least afford to see the Monroe Doctrine violated. To the southeast of the island, separating it by only about sixty miles from Porto Rico, is the 'Mona Passage,' and to the northwest, separating the Haytian end of the island by about sixty-five miles from Cuba, is the 'Windward Passage.' These are the safest and shortest routes from our Atlantic seaboard and from Europe to Panama, Central America, the north coast of South America, Jamaica, and the southern ports of Cuba. Any attempt, consequently, on the part of a European power to gain the slightest foothold on that island, even under the guise of simply collecting a debt due one of its subjects, or of seeking redress for some other grievance, would have to be immediately objected to by our government. Measures which we might freely permit foreign powers to adopt when dealing with some of the other countries to the south of us, we could not allow them to adopt in their dealings with Santo Domingo.

"It is evident, therefore, that we should guard the destiny of that country zealously from the possibility of complications with foreign powers by placing our relations with it on a footing that would preclude the probability of controversies arising in regard to it between any foreign power and ourselves. The menace of war or even the probability of war between the United States and one of the strong powers of Europe would cost the business interests of this country untold millions."

The island of Santo Domingo is a weak republic, and through mismanagement, is badly involved in debt. The United States, by force of circumstances, is her natural protectorate, and in case of foreign invasion, would be called upon to defend the little nation so near at hand.

In the case of her next door neighbor, Porto Rico, annexation was asked for, and granted. As a result the island is developing rapidly, keeping pace with Cuba.

Santo Domingo is not seeking admission, but an effort is being made to establish a treaty which shall place this government in charge of the custom house and make us the financial agent of the island.

The importance of our relations with Santo Domingo was realized many years ago by President Grant, when he tried to annex that republic to the United States, and again by President Roosevelt, when he framed the treaty referred to above. The advantage of President Roosevelt's policy over President Grant's is, that the treaty affords us the opportunity of removing the probability of European intervention in the affairs of Santo Domingo without assuming that burden which annexation would impose upon us.

The provisions of the treaty as originally reported to the senate by the Foreign Relations committee, are in brief, that the United States shall have control of the custom houses of Santo Domingo, collect the duties, which constitute virtually the only revenue of the republic, pay forty-five per cent thereof to the Dominican government to defray its expenses, and retain fifty-five per cent to pay, ratably, proper claims against the government, the justice of such claims to be thoroughly investigated, and passed upon by a committee to be appointed by the United States government.

The treaty thus enables us to assist a weak neighbor who is in sore distress and whose troubles may involve us in serious difficulties with some European power. That assistance we shall be able to render with little interference, with no undue responsibility, and in perfect harmony with the government of the Dominican republic as well as with the governments of the creditor nations.

President Roosevelt, recognizing the justice, as well as the importance of this treaty, which in fact was drafted by him, put its provisions in force last year, depending on the congress now in session to ratify the same. The custom house receipts, during the past twelve months, amounted to $2,300,000, of which fifty-five per cent is held in trust, awaiting the action of the senate on the treaty. That it should pass, seems a matter of simple justice, to say nothing about the commercial advantage which will follow. Samuel Hazard, in his "Santo Domingo Past and Present with a Glimpse at Hayti," gives a very interesting description of the island. He says in part:

"Probably no spot on earth, take it all together, and looking at it in its natural aspects, can be found more lovely; and it is safe to say, probably no extent of territory, the world over, contains within itself, under proper auspices, so many elements of prosperity, worldly success and happiness as the island of Santo Domingo.

"Lying in the Atlantic ocean, at the entrance to the Gulf of Mexico, second of the Great Antilles to Cuba, in size only, Santo Domingo, by its position and natural advantages, ranks first of all the beautiful islands in these waters; and, though today impoverished, yet she will prove, under proper care, such a precious jewel as many kings would be glad to place in their crowns.

"The territorial extent of the whole island, from its extreme eastern point to its most western cape (Liburon), is about four hundred English miles; and the extreme breadth of its widest part, nearly one hundred and eighty miles; the area within its boundaries, exclusive of the adjacent isles, being about the same extent as Ireland, or 25,000 square miles.

"All the lands south of the Yagui river, bordering it from Manzanillo to Guayubin, are extremely fertile, and a number of small settlements are scattered throughout the section. Tobacco, wax and honey are produced in abundance, but the two latter, from the want of coöperation and easy conveyance, are not at present valuable as products, though immense quantities could be exported.

"The 'sierra,' or range of mountains that extend from the southern boundary to this section and that run nearly parallel with the Yagui river, furnish abundance of mahogany of the finest kind.

"This grows in 'manchas,' as it is called, or clumps of from fifteen to twenty trees close together, while for some distance no other mahogany trees will be found, and it is according as these trees are more or less convenient to water, or means of transport that they are cut down. For this reason, at all accessible points, mahogany has become somewhat rare, but in the interior, even at short distances in the impenetrable forests, there is abundance of this valuable wood, together with fustic, liguam, vitae, ebony and many other valuable woods hardly known.

"Our hardy lumbermen from the middle and New England states, with their experience and sawmills, would find a mine of gold in all these timbered lands of Santo Domingo, some of the most precious and choice logs having at times sold in England for as high as one hundred pounds ($500).

Anything desired in the way of climate, may be found in Santo Domingo. The mountain ranges, within easy access, are always cool and the seasons are known as winter and summer, the former being the rainy season. Land is cheap, the soil fertile, and nature offers every inducement to enterprise.

The treaty should be ratified without further delay. It will prove a Godsend to the island, as well as of great advantage to the United States.

DAY SCHOOLS FOR THE BLIND.

Milwaukee is agitating the question of a day school for the blind, to be partially or entirely supported at state expense. The argument is that Milwaukee has a dozen blind children who are waiting to enter this kind of a school and also that the city library has some three hundred volumes in point type which could be utilized for the benefit of the school.

It will be remembered that Milwaukee started a similar agitation a few years ago, in regard to day schools for the deaf, and as a result the state is supporting a dozen or more of these schools today. The scheme was popular because it was a source of revenue for school boards in all cities where schools of this class were established.

But it was a grave injustice for the deaf, who of all classes of people need an educated hand, much more than they need an educated mind. The state school, supported liberally by the state, and equipped with all the appliances for a practical education, is the one and only place where the deaf children of the state can be properly educated.

This is true concerning the state school for the blind, and applies with equal force to the blind population. There is a great deal of false sentiment concerning the education of the deaf and blind, and this is especially true of the latter. Sympathy is largely responsible for these conditions, and sympathy is extremely distasteful to both the deaf and blind.

These people are liberally endowed with the same ambition as their more fortunate fellows, and are entitled to the best equipment that well directed energy can furnish. The ability to earn an honest dollar brings with it self-respect, and develops that most priceless heritage, independent man and womanhood.

A literary and musical education, with nothing else, for the blind, are simply the frills which add to the pangs of genteel poverty. The happest blind people in this or any other state, are those who possess the ability as the result of well directed training, to support themselves.

The state school is in position to furnish more of this kind of training than would be possible in any day school. It has a library of several thousand volumes, which is constantly being reinforced, and teachers in every department well qualified to conduct the work.

There is no demand, outside Milwaukee, for day schools for the blind, and it will prove a misfortune to this unfortunate class if they are ever established.

The eight hour day bill, recommended by the committee, is liable to be pigeon-holed in the house. The government can hardly afford to establish a short labor day precedent. Public improvements and public services are paid for by public money. While organized labor is noisy in its demands, it represents but a fragment of the labor of the country, and is not entitled to special privileges.

The law of precedent and custom governs to large extent in the United States senate, but the new senator from Wisconsin recognizes neither. His interference with Congressman Minor, in the Marinette postoffice case, indicates that he proposes to establish a new order of things. What a reformer can't think of isn't worth mentioning.

And now Dr. Gordon of the Northern hospital, is in the foreground, as an independent candidate for governor. What will become of S. A. Cook, from the same district? Dr. Gordon is a practical joker, and it is easy to read between the lines of his interview, that he thinks the party needs a cathartic.

The pure food bill will rest in the pigeon hole, where it belongs, until the next session. This diet mania has become a good deal of a fad. Ice cream and piss' feet is a good combination for those who like it and sedulous reformers are not obliged to participate, unless they will.

Mayor Becker of Milwaukee is said to be entertaining a gubernatorial bee. The Cream city had a mayor two years ago, noted for the same kind of hospitality. It may be a pleasant pastime but there's nothing in it but an expense account with a balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

The Spirit of Saving

Rehberg Creates and Helps You Form The Habit.

THERE are more people placed on the road to prosperity through the spirit of saving on purchases than from any other form. The saving habit is formed so easily that most persons accept it without really realizing the fact and before they really know it they have the habit which is and must be the foundation of all 'nest eggs.'

Rehberg Makes The Saving Habit an easy one to acquire.

The purchase of a $12.00 or $10.00 Rehberg Suit represents an actual saving of $3.00 or $2.00—So you see you are without a particle of trouble, and with the assurance of absolute satisfaction in the purchase saving and forming the habit that means thrift.

ADVERTISING WAR ON; RINGLINGS VS. HAGENBECK SHOWS

Baraboo Brothers Rushed Four Men Into City—Awakened Livestock at Early Hour to Hire Carriages.

Ringling Brothers' circus and The Carl Hagenbeck United Shows are at war this season, traveling over similar routes, and the campaign was brought into Rock county at an early hour this morning, when both companies opened a strenuous campaign for billboard privileges. According to former plans the Hagenbeck advertising car Number One arrived here today. Herbert S. Madley, advance agent, is in charge and under his direction seventeen men were set at work billing the city and surrounding country. For the work in the rural districts and nearby towns five pole teams and carriages were hired of Dan Ryan & Son.

Called Ryan Out of Bed
Though the Ringling show does not come until about fifteen days after the Hagenbeck circus it was necessary for the former's advance men to move quickly in order to secure facilities for a proper advertising campaign. Consequently four billboards, W. H. Horton, Dave Condon, H. Crabtree and Charles Sellers, all of Chicago, arrived here at an early hour this morning. They called the same livestock who was furnishing carriages to their rivals, out of bed at five o'clock and contracted for four rigs. These started out at six o'clock, just an hour before the Hagenbeck men began work.

To Literally Hide Town
Very likely the Ringling advance secured the best and largest amount of billing space. This was bought at a high figure, while in some places it was bid for in competition. The Ringling men will continue their country work tomorrow and spend Sunday and Monday in the city. There is no doubt but that every available wall and fence will be hidden behind gaily colored bills and cloth and the decorations will be more profuse than when the Ringlings and Buffalo Bill carried on a similar fight several seasons ago.

July 2 Probable Date
There is little doubt but that the Ringling show will come on July 2, though such announcement had not been made. Rockford is to have the attraction on Saturday, June 20; Madison, on Tuesday, July 2, and La Crosse, Wednesday, July 3. It is most likely that the circus will spend Sunday here.

EXERCISES FOR THE COUNTRY GRADUATES

Will Be Held in The Janesville High School Building On June Fourteenth.

Commencement exercises for the pupils who this year graduate from the rural schools in the second district of Rock county, will be held in the local high school building Thursday, June 14. The program arranged is very excellent and is in charge of Superintendent Antisdel. The Girls' Glee club of the high school will sing and two interesting addresses will be delivered. Rev. Thomas W. North, of Milton Junction, will speak on "Our Country Cousins of Tomorrow," and Attorney A. E. Matheson of this city will tell of "Ideals." Diplomas will be presented to the graduates by the superintendent, and mention will be made of those ranking highest. As the county money cannot be used for diploma purposes, each graduate is asked to pay fifty cents towards the expenses. The diploma entitles the holder to free tuition in high school and therefore has a cash value besides being evidence of completion of certain school work. An opportunity will be given, for those who wish to do so, to look over the high school building and its equipment. The parents and friends of the graduates have been invited to the exercises and attendance of considerable size, from among the residents of the eastern half of the county, is expected. In the past the program has attracted much interest and attention.

JUDGE EARLE'S DECISION IN FOOTVILLE HORSE CASE

Harry Walton And Albert Behling Are Held Liable For $33, Boarding Expenses.

Justice Jesse Earle yesterday handed down a decision in the case of Matthew Kennedy vs. John Skelly, Harry Walton, and Albert Behling, an action brought by the village constable to collect $33 for the care and keeping of a horse. The animal was put up at an auction sale at Footville on March 5. Behling is alleged to have bid it in for $100 but to have refused to take his purchase after examination on the ground that it was not as represented. Walton was jointly interested in the deal. Skelly refused to take the animal back and it remained in the hands of the constable. The action was tried here Monday and the court has found that Walton and Behling are liable to the plaintiff for the sum named, but that Skelly should not be included in this liability. Attorney E. H. Ryan represents Kennedy; Attorney J. J. Cunningham, Skelly; and Attorney T. S. Nolan, Behling and Walton. An action brought by Skelly against Behling for the purchase price of the horse is pending in circuit court.

HOLD BANQUET THAT ENDS SCHOOL YEAR

Rusk Lyceum Society Tonight Hold Their Closing Banquet for Present Year.

This evening, in the domestic art rooms of the high school, will be held the annual banquet of the Rusk Lyceum debating society. Each member of the society will bring a young lady and the function will probably lose none of its oldtime enjoyment. This year the society is on a good financial basis, and the four-course feast which is to be served by Caterer Mrs. Rutter will probably be one of the best in some years back. The evening will probably have added pleasure by the fact that no member is allowed to eat until he has interested the rest of the banqueters with a funny coincidence or story. Following the supper the usual program will be given. The welcoming address will be delivered by Pres. Louis Baker, who will also inaugurate the toasts. Other speakers and themes are:

Response—D. D. Manross. The Girls—Jerome Davis. Selected—Orville B. Swift. The Lyceum Poem—Will Tiernin. The Success of the Lyceum—Fred Jensen.

Suburban News In Brief

MILTON

Milton, June 1.—Memorial day was appropriately observed, but the unfavorable weather that prevailed in the forenoon made it necessary to hold the exercises in the Seventh-day Baptist church, which was inadequate to accommodate all who desired to attend. The procession of band, post, relief corps, college students and public school pupils was a lengthy one and made an imposing appearance. J. B. Tracy presided, as a representative of the Citizens' association, and J. E. Davidson acted as marshal of the day. The address by R. W. Clarke, the recitations by Miss Babcock and Mr. Goodrich, and the music by the college male quartet and Florence's band were worthy of the commendations which they received.

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction, May 31.—Mrs. Harriet Crandall, who died at her home on the Calvin Hill farm, May 19, was the daughter of John and Lavina Sullivan and was born on December 29, 1827, in Alford, N. Y. She came with her parents in an early day to Milton, Wis., where she spent the remainder of her life. At the age of thirteen years she united with the Seventh Day Baptist church at Milton and has always remained a member of that society. She was married to Silas H. The sentiment below was found in her bible and was of her own composition and beautifully expresses the life she lived. Of her can be truly said: "Her children rise up and call her blessed."—Prov. 31:28.

SKIN DISEASES

FIERY ACIDS IN THE BLOOD

All skin diseases are due to the same cause—an excess of acid in the blood caused by faulty assimilation of food and poor bowel action; this fiery acid matter is forced to the surface through the pores and glands. Pustules are formed, discharging a sticky fluid which dries and makes a crust, causing intense itching. When the crusts or scabs are scratched off the skin is left raw and bleeding. Sometimes skin diseases are in the dry form, and bran-like scales come on the flesh, or the skin becomes hard and dry, often cracking, and the painful itching causes acute suffering. It does not matter how the trouble is manifested, the cause is the same—an excess of acid in the blood. Salves, powders, cooling washes, etc., while they relieve the itching and give the sufferer temporary comfort, cannot cure the trouble because they do not reach the acid laden blood. The best treatment for all skin diseases is S. S. S., a remedy that is purely vegetable and one which acts directly on the blood with a cleansing, healing effect. S. S. S. neutralizes the acids, and purifies the blood so that the skin instead of being blistered and burned by the fiery fluids, is nourished by a supply of cooling, healthy blood. Special book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired will be furnished without charge.

The Brethren

By RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1903-1904, BY RIDER HAGGARD

Day dawned at last and the army was formed up in order of battle. Its two wings being thrown forward. Thus they struggled on, those of them that were not too weak to stir, who were slaughtered as they lay. Nor as yet did the Saracens attack them, since they knew that the sun was stronger than all their spears. On they labored toward the northern walls, till about midday the battle began with a flight of arrows so thick that for awhile it hid the heavens.

After this came charge and counter-charge, attack and repulse, and always above the noise of war that dreadful cry for water. What chance Godwin and Wulf, never knew, for the smoke and dust blinded them so that they could see but a little way. At length there was a last furious charge, and the knights with whom they were clove the dense mass of Saracens like a serpent of steel, leaving a broad trail of dead behind them. When they pulled rein and wiped the sweat from their eyes it was to find themselves, with thousands of others, upon the top of a steep hill, of which the sides were thick with dry grass and brush that already was being fired.

"The road! The road! Rally around the road!" said a voice, and looking behind them, they saw the black and jeweled fragment of the true cross set upon a rock, and by it the bishop of Acre. Then the smoke of the burning grass rose up and hid it from their sight.

Now began one of the most hideous fights that are told of in the history of the world. Again and again the Saracens attacked in thousands, and again and again they were driven back by the desperate valor of the Franks, who fought on their jaws gave with thirst.

While the Saracens held off, the soldiers began to put up the king's pavilion, and with it other tents, around the rock on which stood the cross.

"Do they mean to camp here?" asked Wulf bitterly.

"Peace," answered Godwin. "They hope to make a wall about the rock. But it is of no avail, for this is the place of our dream."

Then the last attack began. Up the hillside rose dense volumes of smoke, and with the smoke came the Saracens. Thrice they were driven back; thrice they came on. At the fourth onset few of the Franks could fight more, for thirst had conquered them on this waterless hill of Hattin. A great company of Saracen horsemen broke through the ring and rushed at the scarlet tent. It rocked to and fro, then down it fell in a red heap, entangling the king in its folds.

At the foot of the cross Rufinus, the bishop of Acre, still fought on bravely. Suddenly an arrow struck him in the throat, and, throwing his arms wide, he fell to earth. Then the Saracens huddled themselves upon the rock, tore it from its place and with mockery and spittings bore it down the hill toward their camp.

"Come," said Godwin to Wulf in a strange, quiet voice. "We have seen enough. It is time to die. Look! Your bow below us are the manacles, our old regiment, and among them Saladin, for I see his banner. Let us make an end of which they will toll in Essex yonder. Charge for the flag of Saladin!"

Wulf nodded, and side by side they sped down the hill. Scimitars flashed at them, arrows struck upon their mail and the shields blazoned with the death's head of Acre. Through it all they went unscathed and, while the army of the Saracens started, at the foot of the horn of Hattin turned their horses' heads straight for the royal standard of Saladin. On they charged, felling or riding down a foe at every stroke. On, still on, although flame and smoke bled from a score of wounds.

They were among the manacles, where their line was thin. By heaven, they were through them and riding straight at the well known figure of the sultan, mounted on his white horse with his young son and his eunuch, the prince Hassan, at his side.

"Saladin for you, Hassan for me!" shouted Wulf.

Then they met, and all the host of Islam cried out in dismay as they saw the commander of the faithful and his horse borne to the earth before the last despairing charge of these mad Christian knights. Another instant, and the sultan was on his feet again, and a score of scimitars were striking at Godwin. His horse flung down by a blow, he sprang from the saddle, swinging the long sword. Now Saladin recognized the crest upon his buckler and cried out:

"Yield you, Sir Godwin! You have done well. Yield you!"

But Godwin, who would not yield, answered:

"When I am dead—not before."

Thereupon Saladin spoke a word, and, while certain of his manacles engaged Godwin in front, keeping out of reach of that red and terrible sword, others crept up behind and, springing on him, seized his arms and dragged him to the ground, where they bound him fast.

Meanwhile Wulf had fared otherwise, for it was his horse Smoke, already stabbed to the vitals, that fell as he plunged on Prince Hassan. Yet he also arose but little hurt and cried out:

"Thus, Hassan, old foe and friend, we meet at last in war. Come, I would pay the debt I owe you for that drunken wine, man to man and sword to sword."

"Indeed, it is due, Sir Wulf," answered

ed the prince, laughing. "Guards, touch not this brave knight who has dared so much to reach me. Sultan, I ask a boon. Between Sir Wulf and me there is an ancient quarrel that can only be washed away in blood. Let it be decided here and now, and let this be your decree: That if I fall in fair fight, none shall set upon my conqueror and no vengeance shall be taken for my blood."

"God," said Saladin. "Then Sir Wulf shall be my prisoner and no more, as his brother is already. I owe it to the men who saved my life when we were friends."

Hassan sprang to the ground, saying:

"Your horse is dead, Sir Wulf, so we must fight afoot."

"Then they faced each other, and, oh, the scene was strange! Up on the slopes of Hattin the fight still raged. There amid the smoke and fires of the burning grass little companies of soldiers stood back to back while the Saracens wheeled round them, thrusting and cutting at them till they fell. Here and there knights charged singly or in groups and so came to death or capture. About the plain hundreds of foot soldiers were being slaughtered, while their officers were taken prisoners. Toward the camp of Saladin a company advanced with sounds of triumph, carrying aloft a black standard which was the holy rod, while others drove or led mobs of prisoners, among them the king and his chosen knights.

The wilderness was red with blood, the air was rent with shouts of victory and cries of agony or despair. And there in the midst of it all, ringed round with grave, courteous Saracens, stood the emir, clad above his mail in his white robe and jeweled turban, facing the great Christian knight, with harness buckled and redoubled.

For those who watched the battle were forgotten, or, rather, its interest was centered on this point.

"It will be a good fight," said one of them, to Godwin, whom they had suffered to rise. "For, though your brother is the younger and the heavier champion, he is hurt and weary, whereas the emir is fresh and unwounded. Ah, they are at it!"

Hassan had struck first, and the blow went home. Palling upon the point of Wulf's steel helm, the heavy, razor-edged scimitar glanced from it and struck away the links from the dap which hung upon his shoulder, causing the Frank to stagger. Again he struck, this time upon the shield, and so heavily that Wulf came to his knees.

"Your brother is sped," said the Saracen captain to Godwin, but Godwin only answered:

"Wait."

As he spoke Wulf twisted his body out of reach of a third blow, and while Hassan staggered forward with the weight of the missed stroke springing his hand upon the ground and springing to his feet ran backward six or eight paces.

"He flies!" cried the Saracens, but again Godwin said, "Wait." Nor was there long to wait.

For now, throwing aside his buckler and grasping the great sword in both his hands, Wulf shouted at Hassan: "A D'Arcy! A D'Arcy!" with a shout at Hassan's a wounded lion leaps. The sword wheeled and fell, and, lo, the shield of the Saracen was severed in two. Again it fell, and his turbaned helm was clown. A third time, and the right arm and shoulder with the scimitar that grasped it seemed to spring from his body, and Hassan sunk dying to the ground.

Wulf stood and looked at him, while a murmur of grief went up from those who watched, for they loved this emir. Hassan beckoned to the victor with his left hand.

"A good stroke," Hassan said faintly. "That could shear the double links of Damascus steel as though it were silk. Well, as I told you long ago, I knew that the hour of our meeting in war would be an ill hour for me, and my debt is paid. Farewell, brave knight. Would I could hope that we could meet in paradise! Take that star jewel, the badge of my house, from my turban and wear it in memory of me. Long, long and happy be your days."

Then, while Wulf held him in his arms, Saladin came up and spoke to him till he fell back and was dead.

DUAL FIELD MEET TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Local High School Athletes Plan to Hold Track Meet With Green County Team.

Word has been received from Monroe that the track team of the High School of that city will be on hand tomorrow for the dual meet at the Fair grounds. From the tone of the Monroe people it would appear that they expected to win the contests with ease. Janesville, however, has shown its mettle in the Evansville meet and the interscholastic and will doubtless spring several surprises. The games begin at two-fifteen.

Russian Red Cross Delegates. St. Petersburg, June 1.—Prof. De Martens, head of the Russian mission to the Red Cross convention, which is to meet in Geneva in August, left St. Petersburg Thursday for Geneva. The other members of the mission include Maj. Gen. Yermoleff, Col. Orichnikoff and Alexander Gutchikoff.

Expects Britain to Balk. Havana, June 1.—The state department Thursday announced that it is improbable that Great Britain will accept the treaty as amended and that probably there will be no negotiations looking toward inducing its acceptance.

Rest on Miners' Cases. Boise, Idaho, June 1.—It was definitely decided by the attorneys for the defense in the Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone cases that pending the United States supreme court decision, they will take no further steps.

Buy it in Janesville.

Employees Wreck Firm. Philadelphia, June 1.—The banking and brokerage firm of William H. Hurley & Co., one of the oldest in its line in the city, made an assignment Thursday for the benefit of creditors. The firm, it is reported, was forced to suspend business because of discrepancies in the accounts of one or more employees of the concern.

Where Labor Is in Demand. Labor is so scarce in New Zealand that the government of that colony has asked its high commission in London to find in England and send out 1,000 laborers for the construction of a new railway in the north island. Three years' work is guaranteed, and inducements will be offered them to remain permanently.

SPRING BROOK.

Mrs. Otto Sholtz of Beloit spent Decoration Day with Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Samuels.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cronin are going to leave Monday for a two weeks' trip. They expect to visit Utica, N. Y., Niagara Falls and other Eastern points. They expect to go by the way of Boston.

Mrs. Peterson, who has been quite ill with pneumonia, has had another setback.

George Avery has taken up a position with the Choate-Hollister Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ritter have moved from Spring Brook to a residence on Linn street.

Geo. Kelley has returned from the northern part of the State.

Mr. Roeding has started to clean up the factory at the end of the Jackson Street Bridge, formerly used by the Janesville Pearl Button factory.

Peter Cullen has taken up a position with the Bell Telephone Co.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock the horse belonging to Mr. L. Crissy ran away while being left in front of the Samuels grocery. Roy Crissy, who had the use of a small boy, left him in charge of the horse, but the boy neglected the duty imposed upon him.

The Choate-Hollister and Shade Factory closed on Decoration day to give the help a chance to celebrate.

The dogfish, which are of no use, are being caught by large numbers in the river near here. A gentleman while fishing Decoration Day caught three, one of which was a green-skinned one. In spite of this fact there is some good bass and pickerel caught in this part of the river.

The Spring Brook baseball team seems to be a very strong organization this year. In a game between this team and the Blackhaws Decoration day the Spring Brook team won by a score of 22 to 8.
